Ako Kambon is a nationally known speaker, trainer, and leader in the field of educational consulting. Ako has received tremendous recognition for creating a school for at-risk male students.

Morning Session: School Support

Success for All

This workshop is designed to explore current learning theories on how to better understand and teach today's youth. Mr. Kambon will lay the foundation to understanding today's youth and why educators respond as they do. Most importantly, he will suggest practical everyday classroom solutions to the problems faced by teachers and building administrators. This workshop will also focus on the unique conditions which confront the Latino and African American student, especially males.

Afternoon Session: Parental Involvement

We're In This Thing Together

Every educator understands the important role that parents play in the educational development of children. However, rarely do educators have the opportunity to conduct an open and honest dialogue with parents. Educators often do not attend PTA meetings; and the number of parents who visit schools has dwindled significantly. This workshop will give practical suggestions for parents and teachers on working together to improve student behavior and academic performance. Parental involvement compliance information will be interwoven throughout the training. At the conclusion of this workshop, teachers and parents will understand that "if they don't work together, students will play them against each other."
